Experience

Professional experience

- 2015–current PhD Student, Fondazione Bruno Kessler, Italy, PhD student in the Mobile and Social Computing Lab led by Bruno Lepri
My research interests include understanding human behaviours from data generated by mobile phones, social media, credit card transactions and transportation cards, as basis for designing effective strategies for behavioural change and to induce cooperative and positive behaviours.
- Jun 2017–Oct 2017 Data Scientist Intern, Vodafone plc, UK, London
The project involved the study, the analysis and the processing of a dataset that included mobile phone data (CDRs) and mobile money transaction (M-Pesa). The objective of this work was to understand customers' behavior and interaction patterns from CDRs, in order to unveil possible relationships with the customers money transactions. We then used these insights to build and develop predictive models.
- Aug 2016–Sep 2016 Visiting Student, Scalable Cooperation group, MIT Media Lab, Cambridge, MA, US
Exploration of the relationship between income inequality and job automation.

Projects

- 2018 Intesa San Paolo, Turin, Italy
Understanding the relationship between credit card transaction data and health.
- 2016 International Game Technology plc (IGT), Rome, Italy
From IGT data, census data and OpenStreetMap data we developed a model to understand the key drivers of the success of a game room.

Volunteering experience

- Sep 2016 Volunteer, ECML PKDD 2016, Italy, Volunteer at the European Conference on Machine Learning and Principles and Practice of Knowledge Discovery in Databases
